  https://roanestate.zoom.us/j/2632823147
  RSCC faculty will let you know the lowdown on what professors expect, how to get the most out of Zoom breakout rooms, how to recover after "that test score", what a "substantial" discussion post looks like and more! This is definitely one to put on your calendar!

STUDENT SUCCESS WORKSHOPS

Research 101: Finding Sources in the Library & Beyond | February 16, 11 a.m. (EST)
RSCC Librarians, https://roanestate.zoom.us/j/9399377103
Do you need help getting started with research? Librarians can help you navigate library databases to find relevant sources, and they can also help you locate sources beyond library databases, such as census data, statistical analysis, maps, datasets, current and evolving news.

Dig Deeper into Your Research: Evaluating Sources | February 17, 2 p.m. (EST)
RSCC Librarians, https://roanestate.zoom.us/j/9399377103
Do you often feel overwhelmed by too much information when searching for sources? Do you need help determining what information is valid, reliable, and relevant? Librarians can help you understand how to find instructor-approved sources and effectively use those sources in your assignments. Please join us and take advantage of this great opportunity!

Writing with Research 101: How to Meaningfully Incorporate Research into Your Writing | February 18, 11 a.m. & 7 p.m. (EST)
Jenny Rowan, 11 a.m. https://roanestate.zoom.us/j/93706237595
7 p.m. https://roanestate.zoom.us/j/93711685910
You've received your assignment, picked a topic, found and evaluated your research. Now what? This workshop will walk you through simple steps for incorporating research meaningfully by: organizing your research, focusing on the relevance of your research to specific aspects of your argument, and providing easy-to-use templates to introduce information from your sources. Join us and be sure to bring an assignment and sources to practice these techniques as we go!

Textbooks Aren't Novels—So Don't Read Them Like They Are | February 23, 3 p.m. (EST)
Anna Davis and Robin Leib, https://roanestate.zoom.us/j/99450044115
Ever read the same paragraph three times? Do your math or chem textbooks sit closed on your shelf instead of open on your desk? Attend this webinar to learn effective strategies to empower your reading, recall, and retention.
